1. Collapsing FRBRoo to ignore Publication Work and Expression

- The manifestation is a MPT because it is a publication.
- The MPT has expression manifested Publication Expression.
- The Publication Expression has work expressed Publication Work.
- The Publication Expression is the aggregation of at least one other Expression, with added publication content in the form of layout, addition of a title page, page numbering, etc.
- The Expression has work expressed Work
- The Work has creator Agent (Person, Family, or Corporate body)
- We can ignore the Publication Work and Publication Expression

We know that this is published and that it is a SW because the manifestation contains only one distinct expression of one work

- Describe the SW, the SWE and the single MPT
- Relate the SW to:
  - the Agent: Austen (author)
  - the SWE
- Relate the SWE to the MPT
3. Aggregation Work--compilation: Sense and sensibility ; Pride and prejudice ; Emma / Jane Austen. Barnes & Noble.

We know that this is published and that it is an AW because the manifestation embodies multiple distinct expressions.

The AWE does not incorporate any additional supplementary contributions, such as editing, abridging, censoring, etc.

Each of the DW are SW

- Describe each of the DW, their DWE and the single MPT
- Relate each of the DW to:
  - the Agent: Austen (author)
  - their DWE
- Relate each of the DWE to the MPT
4. Aggregation Work--augmentation: Complete illustrated novels / Jane Austen ; with illustrations by Hugh Thomson. ISBN 9781905716630

Option 1

Example 2 in 6JSC/AggregatesWG/1

We know that this is published and that it is an AW because the manifestation embodies multiple distinct expressions. Each of the DW are SW.

- Describe each of the DW, their DWE and the single MPT
- Relate each of the DW to:
  - the Agent: Austen (author)
  - their DWE
- Describe the AW and AWE
- Relate the AWE to:
  - Each of the DWE (incorporates )
  - the Agent: Thomson (illustrator)
  - the MPT

The AWG proposes the addition of the Expression relationship “incorporates / incorporated in” to relate the AWE to the DWE as an efficiency instead of relating each of the DWE to the MPT, especially when there is more than one MPT for the AWE

- Describe the AW and AWE and the single MPT
- Relate the AWE to:
  - the Agent: Austen (author of content)
  - the Agent: Thomson (illustrator)
  - the MPT

Austen is the author of the content incorporated in the AWE; she is not the creator (compiler) of the AW. However, adding an “author of content” relationship to Austen will allow a search on Austen to find this compilation; and will allow the user to distinguish between her works and when her works are included in a compilation.

However, applying this short-cut does not allow a search to find a DW that is included in the AW, because this short-cut does not tell us which of the DW are embodied in this M.

Option 1

We know that this is published and that it is an AW because the manifestation embodies multiple distinct expressions.

In this option we decided to describe the two contents of the compilation, but not bother to identify the editor, so there was no need to describe the AW, which has the same title as the predominant content.

- Describe the DW that is a SW and is the predominant content of the MPT
  - Relate the DW to the Agent: Austen (author)
- Describe the DW that is a SW and is the Introduction about that content
  - Relate the DW to the Agent: Blythe (author)
- Relate each of the DWE to the MPT

This option offers no access to Blythe’s introduction

- Describe the MPT
- Describe the DW that is a SW and is the predominant content of the MPT, and its DWE
  - Relate the DW to the Agent: Austen (author)
- Not describe the other SW and its SWE, or the AW and its AWE
- Relate the DWE to the MPT

This option offers access to Blythe’s introduction, using the short-cut method from 6JSC/AggregatesWG/1. To do this, it means that we have to describe the AW, even though the title of the AW is the same as the title of the predominant content, and so will need to be qualified to distinguish it.

Although it might seem like too much work to describe the AW and AWE when describing an augmentation like this, software will be able to make this a simple process.

- Describe the MPT
- Describe the DW that is a SW and is the predominant content of the MPT, and its DWE
  - Relate the DW to the Agent: Austen (author)
- Describe the AW and AWE
- Relate the AWE to:
  - the Agent: Blythe (editor)
  - the Agent: Blythe (writer of introduction)
  - the MPT

Example 1 in 6JSC/AggregatesWG/1

We know that this is published and that it is an AW because the manifestation embodies multiple distinct expressions.

- Describe the MPT
- Describe the DW that is a SW and is the predominant content of the MPT, and its DWE
  - Relate the DW to the Agent: Austen (author)
- Describe the AW and AWE
- Relate the AWE to:
  - the Agent: Kinsey (editor)
  - the Agent: Castle (writer of introduction)
  - the MPT

We know that this is published and that it is an AW because the manifestation embodies multiple distinct expressions.

- Describe the MPT
- Describe the DW that is a SW and is the predominant content of the MPT, and its DWE
  - Relate the DW to the Agent: Austen (author)
- Describe the AW and AWE
- Relate the AWE to:
  - the Agent: Kinsey (editor)
  - the Agent: Pinch (writer of introduction)
  - the MPT

We know that this is published and that it is an AW because the manifestation embodies multiple distinct expressions. The AWE does not incorporate any additional supplementary contributions, such as editing, abridging, censoring, etc.

Both of the DW are SW that are PW of a larger WPW, but the DW are known by their common title + distinct titles; so we will describe both parts and link them to the MPT

The PW and the larger WPW are authored by a collaboration

- Describe the MPT
- Describe both of the DW and their DWE
  - Relate both of the DW to Agent: J. Kellerman and F. Kellerman (author)
- Describe the WPW and its Expression
  - Relate the WPW to Agent: J. Kellerman and F. Kellerman (author)
  - Relate both of the DW to the WPW
- Not provide, or describe the AW and its AWE
- Related both of the DWE to the MPT
9. Aggregation Work—augmentation + whole-part: The Chronicles of Narnia / C.S. Lewis; illustrations by Pauline Byrnes; and including an essay on writing by C.S. Lewis. HarperCollins Publishers

We know that this is published and that it is an AW because the manifestation embodies multiple distinct expressions.

One of the DW is also incorporated in another compilation, not related to this compilation

One of the DW is a WPW that contains seven SW

- Describe the MPT
- Describe the DW that is a SW (Essay) and its DWE
  - Relate the DW/SW to Agent: Lewis (author)
- Describe the other AW and its AWE that also incorporates the Essay
  - Relate the DWE for the Essay to that AWE (incorporated in)
- Describe the DW that is a WPW and its DWE
  - Relate the DW/WPW to Agent: Lewis (author)
- Not describe the DW contained in the WPW (because describing the whole infers that you are always describing all of its parts) the parts have already been explained
- Describe the AW and the AWE
- Relate the AWE to:
  - the two DWE (incorporates)
  - the Agent: Byrnes (illustrator)
  - the MPT
10. Aggregation Work—performed work: Bridge over troubled water. Keep the customer satisfied / Simon and Garfunkel. Columbia. 1970

Example 1 in the WGA report

We know that this is published and that it is an AW because the manifestation embodies multiple distinct expressions.

- Describe the MPT
- Describe the DW that is a SW on Side A and its DWE
  - Relate the DW to the Agent: Simon & Garfunkel (performer)
- Describe the DW that is a SW on Side B and its DWE
  - Relate the DW to the Agent: Simon & Garfunkel (performer)
- Relate each DWE to the MPT

We need further investigation before we can get into the relationships between Recording Works, Performance Works, composers, and lyricists

Example 2 in the WGA report

Option 1

We know that this is published and that it is an AW because the manifestation embodies multiple distinct expressions.

- Describe the MPT
- Describe the AW and its AWE
  - Relate the AW to the Agent: Taylor (compiler)
  - Relate the AWE to:
    - the Agent: Taylor (editor) and (writer of introduction)
    - the Agents who are creators of the DWs which we are not describing (writer of content)
We know that this is published and that it is an AW because the manifestation embodies multiple distinct expressions.

- Describe the MPT
- Describe the AW and its AWE
  - Relate the AW to the Agent: Taylor (compiler)
  - Relate the AWE to the Agent: Taylor (editor) and (writer of introduction)
- Describe one or more of the DW and their DWE
  - Relate the DW to the relevant Agents as authors
- Relate the AWE to:
  - the three described DWE (incorporates )
  - the Agents who are creators of the DWs which we are not describing (writer of content)
  - the MPT

Why describe some of the DW/DWE data:
- Find the compilation under the names of the writers of the content, and change this Writer of content relationship into DW/DWE Incorporated in relationship if the DW/DWE is found published separately (as Denton and Smiraglia were): http://yorkspace.library.yorku.ca/xmlui/bitstream/handle/10315/1250/denton-frbr-and-the-history-of-cataloging.pdf?sequence=1&isAllowed=y and https://pantherfile.uwm.edu/smiraglia/www/Smiraglia_Bibliographic%20families%20and%20superworks.pdf

Example 3 in the WGA report

We know that this is published and that it is an AW because the manifestation embodies multiple distinct expressions.

- Describe the MPT
- Describe the DW that is a SW and is the predominant content of the MPT, and its DWE
  - Relate the DW to the Agent: Smollett (author)
- Describe the AW and AWE
- Relate the AWE to:
  - the Agent: Regan (editor)
  - the Agent: Lewis (writer of introduction)
  - the MPT

Example 4 in the WGA report

Option 1

We know that the MPT in English is a published SW because it embodies only one distinct expression, and the MPT in English and French is a published AW because the manifestation embodies multiple distinct expressions (because somebody decided to put them together)

- Describe the MPT (English & French)
- Describe the DW that is a SW
  - Describe its DWE. French
  - Describe its DWE. English
- Describe the AW and AWE. French. English
- Relate the AWE to
  - the two DWE (incorporates )
  - the MPT
- Describe the MPT (English only)
  - Relate MPT (English only) to DWE. English

We treat translations of a work as different expressions of the same work. In the case of the bilingual MPT, someone has aggregated two expressions into one, creating an AW and AWE. The AW does not have a collective title, or any attributes or relationships that need to be identified, but it might be useful for someone to know that a bilingual expression of the work exists.

We know that the MPT in English is a published SW because it embodies only one distinct expression, and the MPT in English and French is a published AW because the manifestation embodies multiple distinct expressions (because somebody decided to put them together)

- Describe the MPT (English & French)
- Describe the DW that is a SW
  - Describe its DWE. French
  - Describe its DWE. English
- Do not describe the AW and AWE. French. English
- Relate the MPT (English & French) to
  - DWE. French
  - DWE. English
- Describe the MPT (English only)
  - Relate the MPT (English only) to DWE. English
Appendix C: RDA instructions related to aggregate resources

In order to review RDA compliance with various models of aggregates, it is necessary to identify everything that RDA has to say about aggregates.

This appendix lists the RDA instructions that have been identified by the Group, thus far, as being related in some way to the concept of aggregation. Further investigations will be done to identify instructions containing some other possibly relevant keywords, such as: aggregate; aggregated; aggregation; augmentation; collection; compilation; component part; composite; container; distinct; parallel; part; section; set; unit
